Human Behavior and The Commissioned Building: Using History to Improve Your Process

Susan Mazur-Stommen, Ph.D.
Director, Behavior and Human Dimensions, ACEEE
IF HISTORY IS WRITTEN BY THE VICTORS,

HOW DOES FRENCH HISTORY EXIST
"I think you should be more explicit here in step two."
• Analyze past outcomes in terms of your successes and failures
• Use historiography to assess the mechanics underpinning your outcomes
• Decide what approach you want to take – are you a top-down or a bottom-up?
• Is your method working for you, or should you adapt it?
• Small changes can have large impacts.
• Piggyback culture change onto technological innovations.
• Empower local and indigenous solutions.
• Use ritual and lore to encode information. Invent traditions.
• Go beyond the visual-verbal; incorporate embodied learning for kinesthetic learners (doers)
• Pace your lessons.